

In English Direct objects answer whom or what.

Claudia dusts the lamp.	What does Claudia dust?	the lamp
Marcos invites Teresa.	Whom does Marcos invite?	Teresa
Pablo makes the beds.	What does Pablo make?	the beds

The lamp, Teresa, and the beds are all direct objects because they answer whom or what. Direct objects can be replaced by direct object pronouns, such as, him, her, it, or them.

Claudia dusts the lamp .	Claudia dusts it .
Marcos invites Teresa .	Marcos invites her .
Pablo makes the beds .	Pablo makes them .

A Circle the direct object in the following sentences. Then write the direct object pronoun which could be used to replace the direct object.

- |                                           |           |
|-------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 1. Fernando mops the floor .       | it |
| 2. Maricarmen vacuums the rugs.           | _____     |
| 3. My mom pays the mechanic.              | _____     |
| 4. Guadalupe clears the tables.           | _____     |
| 5. Manuela cleans the basement.           | _____     |
| 6. Lorenzo's dad calls the cleaning lady. | _____     |
| 7. Mateo does the chores.                 | _____     |
| 8. The homeowner hires the gardener.      | _____     |

CAPÍTULO 3

In Spanish Direct objects also answer who or what. As in English, direct objects can be replaced by direct object pronouns. Four direct object pronouns are lo, la, los, and las. The direct object pronoun used depends on the gender and number of the direct object it replaces.

Sacudo el polvo .	Lo sacudo.
Quito la mesa .	La quito.
Hago los quehaceres .	Los hago.
Tiendo las camas .	Las tiendo.

Notice that the direct object pronoun comes right before the conjugated verb. The direct object pronoun can also be attached to the infinitive.

¿Quién tiene que lavar los platos?      Mi hermana los tiene que lavar.
OR      Mi hermana tiene que lavarlos.

B Circle the direct object in the following sentences. Then write the direct object pronoun which could be used to replace the direct object.

1. Yo riego las flores. las
_____
2. Su padre barre el cuarto de baño. _____
3. Tú llamas al jardinero. _____
4. Mi hermano tiende la cama. _____
5. Los niños sacuden el polvo. _____
6. Mi madre ordena los libros. _____
7. Ustedes lavan las toallas. _____
8. El abuelo ayuda a la abuela. _____

C Answer the following questions replacing the direct object with the appropriate direct object pronoun.

1. ¿Quién quita la mesa en tu casa?

Mi hermano menor la quita.

2. ¿Tiendes las camas?

3. ¿Quién limpia el comedor?

4. ¿Quién hace los quehaceres?

5. ¿Quién barre el piso de la cocina?

6. ¿Quién cuida los jardines?

7. ¿Quién generalmente limpia la casa?

D Direct object pronouns cannot be used unless the direct object that they replace has already been stated. Explain why, using the sentences below as examples.

I clean it.

Lo limpio.

We cut them.

Las cortamos.

_____

_____

_____